

Beneteu First 35s5 46 Charter

Just when Bénéteau's range was beginning to look like everybody else's, the company launched this bombshell at the 1988 Paris Boat Show. In a comparatively short production run, 430 were sold. Finally acknowledging that style was almost as important as space and speed, the company teamed Philippe Starck with Jean Berret to produce a futuristic yet practical and fast cruiser-racer. She had striking mahogany and alloy décor with stark white upholstery and black rubber piping to the deckhead, white-veined marble worktops and a carbon fibre tiller; critics were either stunned or appalled.
